Iraq: United Nations and Humanitarian Aid Organizations

Summary

The war with Iraq (Operation Iraqi Freedom), which began on March 19, 2003, to overthrow Saddam Hussein and change the regime was accomplished when the Iraqi regime fell on April 9, 2003. On June 28, 2004, the U.S.-led coalition transferred full sovereignty to the Iraqi interim government, and the Iraqi government is now running the day-to-day operations of the country.

On January 30, 2005, elections were held in Iraq for a transitional National Assembly, and there are plans to establish a permanent government by December 15, 2005. Currently, the main focus is to stabilize the security situation, continue to assist in reconstruction efforts, and coordinate and provide humanitarian assistance to the Iraqi people.

This report provides an annotated list of U.N. agencies that are involved in Iraq, key U.S. government agencies, and a sample list of major international and U.S.-based aid organizations that are providing humanitarian assistance to Iraq. Internet links to the U.N. agencies and humanitarian aid organizations are also provided. For detailed discussion on humanitarian and reconstruction assistance in Iraq, see CRS Report RL31833, Iraq: Recent Developments in Reconstruction Assistance. This report will be updated as events warrant.

Iraq: United Nations and Humanitarian Aid Organizations

Introduction

The war with Iraq (Operation Iraqi Freedom), which began on March 19, 2003, to overthrow Saddam Hussein and change the regime was accomplished when the Iraqi regime fell on April 9, 2003. However, coalition forces continue to combat insurgents and are currently attempting to stabilize the security situation in Iraq.¹

On June 28, 2004, Ambassador L. Paul Bremer, who was the chief civil administrator in Iraq and head of the Coalition Provisional Authority (CPA), handed over the appropriate legal documents transferring full sovereignty to the interim government of Iraq. The transfer of power was sanctioned under United Nations Security Council Resolution 1546,² which approved U.S. and British plans to hand over power to Iraq on June 30, 2004. The CPA no longer exists, and the Iraqi government is now running the day-to-day operations of its country.³

On January 30, 2005, elections were held in Iraq for a transitional National Assembly, and on May 10, 2005, the National Assembly appointed a 55-member committee to begin drafting a constitution. If a permanent constitution is approved, elections to establish a government could take place by December 15, 2005.⁴ Currently, the main focus is to stabilize the security situation, and to assist in reconstruction efforts, and coordinate and provide humanitarian assistance to the Iraqi people.

This report provides an annotated list of U.N. agencies involved in Iraq, key U.S. government agencies, and a sample list of major international and U.S.-based aid organizations that are providing humanitarian assistance to Iraq.

U.N. Agencies Currently Involved in Iraq

Following is a list of U.N. agencies currently providing humanitarian assistance to Iraq. Internet addresses of the U.N. agencies as well as links to their Web pages on Iraq (if available) are provided.

The U.N. Assistance Mission for Iraq (UNAMI)

[<http://www.uniraq.org/>]

The UNAMI was mandated by the U.N. Security Council Resolution 1500⁵ on August 14, 2003, as a mission to oversee the U.N. Oil for Food program handover on November 21, 2003. Currently, this mission will help direct the United Nations' future role and the various humanitarian and reconstruction programs in Iraq, and this site is a Web portal for U.N. agencies and NGOs working in Iraq [see HIC entry below]

The Humanitarian Information Center (HIC) for Iraq

[<http://www.hiciraq.org/main.asp>]

The HIC is part of the humanitarian community working in Iraq and was established to provide information on relief efforts. For a list of U.N. agencies, government organizations, and NGOs working in Iraq, including contact information, click under "Who What Where" and "Contacts Database," which are under the heading "Coordination."

The U.N. Mine Action Program — Iraq Update

[http://www.mineaction.org/countries/countries_overview.cfm?country_id=920]

The U.N. Mine Action program in Northern Iraq was established in 1997 to locate and remove mines and resolve mine-related problems such as raising public awareness and providing medical, rehabilitation, and vocational services to mine victims.⁶

UNICEF Programs in South and Central Iraq

[<http://www.unicef.org/emerg/iraq/index.html>]

UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) [<http://www.unicef.org/>] is an advocate for the protection of children's rights and is tasked to help children living in poverty, reduce childhood death and illness in developing countries, and protect children in the midst of war and natural disasters.

U.N. Development Programme (UNDP) in Iraq

[<http://www.iq.undp.org/>]

UNDP [<http://www.undp.org/>] is the United Nations' global development network, helping countries build solutions to the challenges of democratic governance, poverty reduction, crisis prevention and recovery, energy and environment, information and communications technology, and HIV/AIDS. The United Nations Development Programme has been present in Iraq since 1976.

⁵ For full text, see [http://www.un.org/Docs/sc/unsc_resolutions03.html].

WHO [<http://www.who.int/en/>] is the United Nations' specialized agency for health.

Other U.N. Agencies — Iraq

Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA)

[<http://ochaonline.un.org/>]

The OCHA works with governments, nongovernmental organizations (NGOs), U.N. agencies and individuals, and helps them mobilize and coordinate their efforts in responding to disasters, emergencies or a humanitarian crisis around the world.

U.N. Environment Programme (UNEP)

[<http://www.unep.org/>]

The UNEP works to promote the future of the earth's environment. Its activities cover a wide range of environmental issues, including the promotion of environmental science and information and dealing with environmental disasters and emergencies. The UNEP in 1993 issued a report on the environmental effects of oil spills as a result of the 1991 Iraq-Kuwait conflict.⁷

U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR)

[<http://www.unhcr.ch/cgi-bin/texis/vtx/home>]

The agency's primary purpose is to safeguard the rights and well-being of refugees, and coordinates efforts to protect refugees and resolve refugee problems worldwide. For information specifically on Iraq, click on the "Search RefWorld" link in the search box and select Iraq from the "Country Index" box.

⁷ U.N. Environment Programme, Updated Scientific Report on the Environmental Effects of the Conflict between Iraq and Kuwait, Mar. 8, 1993, United Nations document UNEP/GC.17/Inf.9. This document summarizes the United Nations' findings on the environmental impacts of the oil fires and oil spills during the 1991 Gulf War.
