

The Military's COVID-19 Vaccination Mandate

Updated October 8, 2021

Since the onset of the Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) pandemic, Members of Congress have expressed interest in Force Health Protection (FHP) measures the Department of Defense (DOD) might implement to protect servicemembers and mitigate pandemic-related threats to military operations. DOD has implemented a variety of conditions-based FHP measures that mirror the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's recommended protective measures, to limit the spread of COVID-19 among military personnel. On August 9, 2021, the Secretary of Defense (SECDEF) issued a Message to the Force indicating his intent to require COVID-19 vaccination for servicemembers “no later than mid-September, or immediately upon the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) licensure [of a COVID-19 vaccine], whichever comes first.”

On August 23, 2021, the FDA approved the licensing application for the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine for individuals aged 16 years and older. The vaccine, marketed as Comirnaty, is also available to individuals aged 12 through 15 years old under an existing emergency use authorization (EUA). SECDEF issued a memorandum on August 24, 2021, directing the Secretaries of the Military Departments (MILDEPs) to “immediately begin full vaccination of all members of the Armed Forces under DoD authority on active duty or in the Ready Reserve, including the National Guard, who are not fully vaccinated against COVID-19.”

This Insight summarizes the COVID-19 vaccination mandate for servicemembers and offers considerations for Congress as the MILDEPs implement the mandate. For an overview of DOD's vaccination policy and program, see CRS InFocus 11816.

Military Mandate for COVID-19 Vaccination

The SECDEF memorandum mandates that servicemembers become “fully vaccinated against COVID-19” and directs that only FDA-approved COVID-19 vaccines be used for mandatory vaccination. Servicemembers may also volunteer to receive another COVID-19 vaccine to meet the requirement. DOD defines “fully vaccinated” status as starting “two weeks after completing” the dosing regimens of

- the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine,

- a COVID-19 vaccine subject to an FDA EUA (e.g., Moderna or Johnson & Johnson), or
- a COVID-19 vaccine approved on the World Health Organization’s Emergency Use Listing.

The memorandum states that servicemembers previously infected with COVID-19 are not considered “fully vaccinated.” Servicemembers may be vaccinated through the Military Health System or another clinic at no cost.

Each MILDEP has issued directives to establish the requirement, establish deadlines, and clarify the process for requesting an exemption. The U.S. Coast Guard (USCG), under the Department of Homeland Security, issued a similar mandate for active and reserve members on August 26, 2021.

COVID-19 Vaccination Exemptions

Servicemembers may request an administrative or medical exemption to the vaccination requirement using similar procedures established for other mandatory vaccinations.

Medical Exemptions

Temporary (≤ 365 days) medical exemptions may be authorized by a DOD or USCG medical provider if a servicemember has an underlying health condition contraindicated with vaccination (e.g., the individual is immunocompromised or experienced a previous adverse health effect from an immunization), or a clinical issue that requires further medical evaluation. Certain military services may also authorize a permanent (> 365 days) medical exemption when approved by a senior medical official. The SECDEF memorandum exempts servicemembers participating in COVID-19 clinical trials from mandatory vaccination until the end of the research project.

Administrative Exemptions

Temporary or permanent administrative exemptions may be authorized under certain circumstances. A unit commander may authorize exemptions for those pending separation or retirement. Senior service officials may authorize religious exemptions after the servicemember is counseled by the unit commander, a medical provider, and a military chaplain. These requests must also be endorsed by the servicemember’s chain of command and reviewed by a military lawyer prior to consideration by an approving authority. In general, servicemembers may appeal a denied exemption request to a higher-level authority for a final adjudication decision.

Addressing Noncompliance

The MILDEP directives authorize unit commanders to counsel and take action against noncompliant servicemembers who have not requested or received an exemption, which is considered a violation of Article 92 (i.e., Failure to Obey order or regulation) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. A unit commander may pursue the following actions against a noncompliant servicemember:

- no action,
- administration action,

- nonjudicial punishment,
- disposition of charges (i.e., court-martial), or
- forwarding \(to another court-martial authority\) for disposition of charges.

Considerations for Congress

Congress may consider the following lines of inquiry to gather further information on DOD and USCG implementation of the COVID-19 vaccination mandate:

- What barriers, if any, do servicemembers experience in requesting an exemption or accommodation?
- How are unit commanders and senior service leaders trained to evaluate and decide on religious accommodations and other personnel matters?
- How do unit commanders determine which action is appropriate for noncompliant servicemembers?
- What discharge characterization will separated or dismissed servicemembers receive? Are discharge characterizations after an adverse separation consistent and comparable across all military services?
- How might the mandate affect military recruitment and retention?
- How will DOD or the MILDEPs record the number or percentage of noncompliant servicemembers? Will that data be made available to Congress?
