

The Social Security Fairness Act of 2023 (H.R. 82): Background for Congress

Updated November 13, 2024

The Social Security Fairness Act of 2023 (H.R. 82) was introduced by Representative Garret Graves on January 9, 2023. S. 597, a companion bill, was introduced by Senator Sherrod Brown on March 1, 2023. The bills would repeal two provisions under Social Security—the Government Pension Offset (GPO) and the Windfall Elimination Provision (WEP)—for benefits payable after December 2023.

The GPO and WEP are two separate provisions that reduce regular Social Security benefits for workers and their eligible family members if they receive (or are entitled to) pensions based on earnings from employment not covered by Social Security and not subject to its payroll tax. The two largest groups of Social Security beneficiaries that may be (or are currently) affected by the GPO and WEP are (1) about 28% of state and local government employees covered by alternative staff retirement systems and (2) most permanent civilian federal employees hired before January 1, 1984, who are covered by the Civil Service Retirement System \(CSRS\) or another alternative retirement plan. On September 9, 2024, the Congressional Budget Office estimated that H.R. 82 would increase direct spending by about \$196 billion over the period 2024-2034.

On September 10, 2024, Representative Graves filed a discharge petition on a special rule (H.Res. 1410) in the possession of the Rules Committee that would provide for consideration of H.R. 82 on the House floor. On September 19, 2024, this discharge petition obtained the necessary 218 signatures to make it privileged for consideration by the full House. On November 12, 2024, the House passed H.R. 82 in a vote of 327-75 (with one voting present and 29 not voting).

This Insight provides summary information on the GPO and WEP, including how each provision works, who is affected, arguments for or against these provisions, and relevant legislation in the 118th Congress, including H.R. 82.

The Government Pension Offset (GPO)

The GPO reduces the Social Security spousal or widow(er)'s benefits of most people who also receive pensions based on federal, state, or local government employment not covered by Social Security. Under current law, the Social Security spousal or widow(er)'s benefit is reduced by an amount equal to two-thirds of the noncovered government pension (i.e., a 67% offset). In December 2023, 745,679 Social Security beneficiaries, or about 1% of all beneficiaries, had their benefits reduced by the GPO.

Congressional Research Service

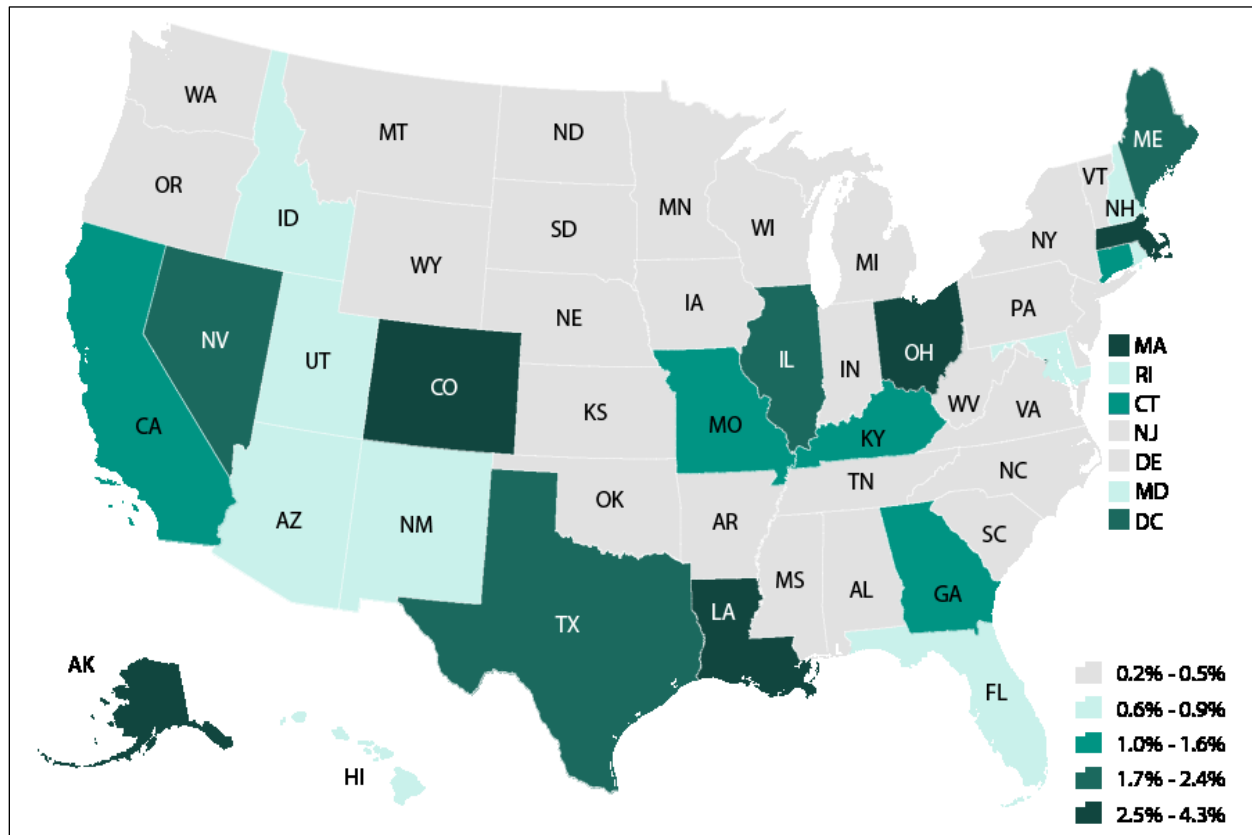

<https://crsreports.congress.gov>

IN12451

The share of Social Security beneficiaries affected by the GPO varies widely by state (see Figure 1). States with a relatively larger share of GPO-affected beneficiaries are usually those with a larger share of state and local government employees not covered by Social Security or those with more CSRS retirees.

Figure 1. Share of Social Security Beneficiaries Affected by the GPO by State, 2022

Source: CRS analysis based on data received from Social Security Administration (SSA), Office of Research, Evaluation and Statistics, in February 2023, and SSA, Annual Statistical Supplement, 2023, Table 5.J2.

Notes: For the number of Social Security beneficiaries affected by the GPO by state in December 2023 (most recent data available), see Table 5 in CRS Report RL32453, Social Security: The Government Pension Offset \(GPO\).

The GPO's defenders maintain that it helps ensure that only financially dependent spouses receive the full Social Security spousal or widow(er)'s benefit while curtailing what would otherwise be an unfair advantage for government workers who are not covered by Social Security. Opponents of the GPO argue that the GPO is not well understood and that it harms lower- and middle-wage workers, such as teachers, and in some circumstances pushes these retired workers into poverty.

H.R. 82/S. 597 would repeal the GPO for all Social Security beneficiaries after December 2023.

Additional legislative proposals in the 118th Congress include, for example:

- eliminating the GPO (and the WEP) temporarily (e.g., S. 2280 and H.R. 4583), and
- eliminating the GPO for some beneficiaries (e.g., H.R. 8487 and H.R. 8835).

The Windfall Elimination Provision (WEP)

The WEP is a modified benefit formula that reduces the Social Security benefits of certain retired or disabled workers who are also entitled to pension benefits based on earnings from jobs that were not covered by Social Security. In December 2023, about 2.1 million people (or about 3% of all Social Security beneficiaries) were affected by the WEP.

Similar to the GPO, the share of Social Security beneficiaries affected by the WEP varies by state. Typically, states that have a larger share of state and local government employees not covered by Social Security or more CSRS retirees have a relatively larger share of Social Security beneficiaries affected by the WEP (see Figure 2).

Figure 2. Share of Social Security Beneficiaries Affected by the WEP by State, 2022

Source: CRS analysis based on data received by CRS from SSA, Office of Research, Evaluation and Statistics, in February 2023, and SSA, Annual Statistical Supplement, 2023, Table 5.J2.

Notes: For the number of Social Security beneficiaries affected by the WEP by state in December 2023 (most recent data available), see Table 4 in CRS Report 98-35, Social Security: The Windfall Elimination Provision \(WEP\).

Proponents of the measure say that it is a reasonable means to prevent payment of overgenerous and unintended benefits to certain workers who would otherwise profit from the Social Security regular benefit formula. Furthermore, they maintain that the provision rarely causes hardship because, by definition, the people affected also receive pensions from noncovered work. Some opponents of the WEP believe the provision is unfair because it substantially reduces a benefit that certain workers may have included in their financial planning for retirement. Other critics note that the current-law windfall elimination formula is an imprecise way to determine the actual windfall when applied to individual cases.

H.R. 82/S. 597 would repeal the WEP for all Social Security beneficiaries after December 2023. Additional legislative proposals in the 118th Congress include, for example:

- revising the WEP formula (e.g., H.R. 4260 and H.R. 5342), and
- eliminating the WEP (and the GPO) temporarily (e.g., S. 2280 and H.R. 4583).

Author Information

Zhe Li
Analyst in Social Policy

---

Disclaimer

This document was prepared by the Congressional Research Service (CRS). CRS serves as nonpartisan shared staff to congressional committees and Members of Congress. It operates solely at the behest of and under the direction of Congress. Information in a CRS Report should not be relied upon for purposes other than public understanding of information that has been provided by CRS to Members of Congress in connection with CRS's institutional role. CRS Reports, as a work of the United States Government, are not subject to copyright protection in the United States. Any CRS Report may be reproduced and distributed in its entirety without permission from CRS. However, as a CRS Report may include copyrighted images or material from a third party, you may need to obtain the permission of the copyright holder if you wish to copy or otherwise use copyrighted material.